Boynton Beach, FL – June 17, 2008 – Shawn Hackett, president of Hackett Financial Advisors (www.hackettadvisors.com) and author of the weekly Hackett Money Flow Report, will be a featured presenter at the World Agri Invest Congress taking place from June 30 through July 2 in London. As a nationally recognized commodities broker and expert resource to the financial media, Hackett was invited to participate on an agricultural commodities investing panel discussion, host a solo presentation on Money Flow analysis of sugar during the conference, and run a pre-event biofuels workshop for investors.

On June 30, during the day-long pre-conference workshop, Hackett will offer his unique insights into key investment opportunities in the Biofuels Markets – specifically addressing the supply/demand cycles of corn, sugar and soybeans. On July 2, Hackett will present “Best Practice Investment: Using ‘Money Flow’ to Identify Opportunities in Sugar and other Agriculture Commodities”. The presentation, highlighting key commodities investment issues, will address everything from using longer term supply/demand trends of speculative funds, commercial hedgers and index funds to identify commodities investing opportunities, to global liquidity factors and their effects on individual commodity markets.

Along with representatives from London Pension Fund Authority and ABP Investment, Hackett will be a featured guest on the keynote panel discussion entitled “Investor Perspectives on Agricultural Commodities”. The panel, taking place on July 1, will address key investment community concerns as they relate to commodities.

Shawn Hackett is available to the media as an expert resource for a range of agricultural commodity topics. Members of the press are invited to attend his workshop and presentation.
